

NEW BOSS MEETS THE FANS AT HOSPICE CHARITY FUNDRAISER

Darren Moore signs autographs for fans at Stourbridge

ALBION legend Darren Moore was back on the touchline in Stourbridge just 24 hours after taking charge of the Baggies for the first time as caretaker manager.

It was a busy weekend for Moore who watched from the sidelines at the Glass-boys' War Memorial ground in Amblecote as a Baggies legends side took on Stourbridge Old Boys to raise money for Mary Stevens Hospice, in memory of local woman Jane Webb.

Less than 24 hours earlier 'Big Dave' had made his debut as gaffer at the Hawthorns as battling Baggies were held to a 1-1 draw by Swansea.

Stourbridge friends Matt Webb and Mark Naylor have achieved their goal of raising £50,000 for the hospice in memory of Matt's mother.

The third annual charity football match between sides representing West Bromwich Albion and Stourbridge FC saw thousands of fans turn out to see the teams compete for the Jane Webb Memorial Trophy, this year sponsored by Western Power Distribution.

Organisers also put on a full family fun day with market stalls, fairground games and rides, the chance to meet WBA stars Sam Field and Alex Palmer, a mascot obstacle course, a sporting memorabilia auction and the opportunity to meet the new Albion caretaker boss, following the departure of Alan Pardew.

For the second year in a row it was The Baggies who claimed victory, with man-of-the-match Nigel Quashie catching the eye with a dominant midfield display and a rare appearance on the scoresheet as the game finished 5-1.

Among the crowd some famous football faces including Bob Taylor and new Halesowen Town boss Lee Hughes. 'Super Bob' was on the pitch at half-time to present Kewford Eagles and Phoenix Youth with the trophies they won in a recent youth tournament supporting the hospice.

Matt Webb, Stourbridge Old Boys manager, said: "To have raised that much money for families at the hospice means so much to Mark and myself."

New appeal over machete incident

THE search for a man seen armed with a machete in a Dudley street continues as police launch a fresh appeal for witnesses.

A manhunt is under way following an incident on Buffery Road last Thursday where a car apparently mowed down a man believed to be in his 50s.

Residents told of how armed police swooped on the street shortly after the incident looking for the suspect, with forensic investigators photographing a black Renault Megane.

Officers spoke to witnesses and a cordon remained in place until around 11.30pm.

A spokesman said the force was 'still actively trying to identify the suspect' and asked anyone with information to call 101.

BUSINESS

Shopping centre deal is in jeopardy

THE mega-merger that would bring together the owners of the Merry Hill and Bullring shopping centres is hanging in the balance after a rival £5 billion bid from a French group.

Shopping centre operator Hammons, owner of the Bullring and Grand Central in Birmingham, had agreed a £3.4bn tie-up with Intu, owner of Merry Hill and the Trafford Centre in Manchester, but it could be derailed.

TRAFFIC

Delays predicted during roadworks

MOTORISTS face delays while roadworks take place on a Halesowen road for several weeks.

A stop and go sign will be used during the works on Coombs Road until April 30.

Meanwhile, temporary traffic lights will be on place from Furlong Lane to Butchers Lane in Halesowen until April 20 while maintenance is carried out.

Substance abuse is becoming 'acceptable' warns leader CALL TO LAUNCH A WAR ON DRUGS

DEATHS from drug abuse in Dudley have almost doubled in 10 years, at a time funding for recovery services is being cut.

But Dudley Council's leader blames drug use becoming more 'acceptable' in society for the rise and is calling for 'a war on drugs'.

Forty people died from drug abuse in the borough between 2014 and 2016 - up from 23 in 2004 to 2006. Of those 40, 21 were linked to heroin and morphine, raising fears that former legal 'highs' such as Black Mamba are contributing to the deaths.

In October, it was revealed West Midlands Ambulance Service dealt with 50 cases related to Black Mamba every day. The figures have been published by the Office of National Statistics.

Councillor Patrick Harley, leader of Dudley Council, blames the rise of drug deaths in the area on more people using them recreationally.

He said: "It's becoming acceptable. We're seeing a softer stance from senior police officers and some politicians.

Mistake

"I think that's a mistake. The more we start turning a blind eye, then the more it becomes the norm.

"We need a war on drugs to eradicate this problem once and for all. It has become a cancer in our society. But it has to come from up top, from the senior police officers, politicians, the senior judiciary.

Dudley Council is cutting funding to its contracted substance misuse programme by £400,000. The council is spending £4m on the programme this year.

By Alex Ross and Megan Archer

The rate of deaths related to heroin and morphine in Dudley, at 21 deaths, were 2.2 per 100,000 of the population.

The areas with the highest rate in the West Midlands are Walsall, 2.5, followed by Dudley, 2.2, and Birmingham, where, although there were 154 deaths, it was 1.8 per 100,000.

In Wolverhampton, where there were 11 deaths, the rate was 1.4 per 100,000. Sandwell has the lowest death rates for heroin and morphine than anywhere else in the West Midlands with six deaths linked to the drugs in two years - 0.6 per 100,000. South Staffordshire had one death.

Change, Grow, Live run Atlantic Recovery Centre in Dudley and The Beacon Recovery Service in Walsall, where head of services, Kerry Trinder, said: "Every drug-related death is a tragedy."

Faberge flower stuns TV experts

Colonel Stamford J Cartwright MBE with the Faberge flower on display at Himley Hall

A RARE Faberge flower valued at £1 million will be the star of TV's Antiques Roadshow on Sunday. The jewel was gifted to the Queen's Own Worcestershire Hussars in 1904 by the Countess of Dudley, the wife of Lord Dudley, the Second in Command of the Regiment, on the soldiers return to the Midlands from the Boer War in South Africa. The five-inch pear blossom ornament set in rock crystal, with gold, silver and diamonds, is now on display at Himley Hall.

It is one of only three items to be valued at £1m in the Antiques Roadshow's 40-year history.

Woman dies in collision with lorry on M5

The scene of Tuesday's crash

A WOMAN was killed in a crash with a lorry on the M5 near Halesowen.

The car was trapped under the front of the lorry in the collision, which happened on the northbound carriageway between junctions 3 and 4 early on Tuesday morning.

Emergency services rushed to the incident but the woman in the car was confirmed dead at the scene yesterday at around 4.20am.

A West Midlands Ambulance spokesman explained: "On arrival, crews discovered a woman in the car, who was found to be in cardiac arrest. Unfortunately, it quickly became apparent nothing could be done to save her and she was confirmed dead at the scene.

"The lorry driver, a man, was uninjured in the incident and discharged at the scene."

West Mercia Police has urged anyone with information or dash-cam video of the crash to get in touch. A spokesman for the force said: "Please get in touch to share what you saw. Even the smallest piece of information could help our investigation into this incident."

To share information phone the police on 101 and give reference number 52S of 10 April. You can also report information anonymously to Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111 or by visiting crimestoppers-uk.org online.

The accident came one week after lorry driver Brian Harper died following a crash southbound on the same motorway between junctions 2 and 3. The father-of-four from Wednesbury is believed to have suffered a medical episode at the wheel when he crashed into the central reservation on Easter Monday.

First blades bin set up in fight on knife crime

A HAUL of dangerous blades could soon be off the town's streets after Dudley's first knife bin was unveiled.

The weapons surrender bin now stands in the town in an attempt to curb a rise in knife crime sweeping across the region.

It is the latest to be installed in the West Midlands, with a total of 14 in the area.

West Midlands Police and Crime Commissioner David Jamieson, officially launched the knife bin last week, said: "The bins are providing people with a safe way to dispose of knives which they shouldn't be carrying. Every knife posted into a surrender bin is potentially a life saved."

"These bins work best when the community wants them and in Dudley that's the message we have received loud and clear."

The new safe and secure metal container, designed for residents to dispose of their knives, was unveiled at Tesco Extra, at the Birmingham Road retail park.

More

Other bins are located in Wolverhampton, Birmingham and West Bromwich, with more expected to be installed in the coming months across the West Midlands.

Peter Marsh, of the Dudley Rotary Club, who helped organise the installation of the new knife bin, said: "The knife bins are a fantastic idea - I knew Dudley should have one too. We all know there is a problem across the country with knife crime and these bins are a very useful tool to help tackle it. If anyone in Dudley has a knife which they shouldn't, then I'd urge them to use the bin."

Blades can also be surrendered at a bin within West Bromwich Town Centre, on the corner of High Street and New Street.

The Chronicle's sister newspaper, the Express and Star, is running a campaign calling for tougher sentences for people carrying a weapon. More than 1,700 have signed the online petition at change.org/p/theresa-may-mp-knife-possession-should-have-stiffer-sentences

Just a Minute to help save clock

Campaigners are appealing for help to restore an old church clock which is to be installed at St Peter's in Cradley

CHURCH-GOERS are hoping the public can find time to help restore an old church clock back to its former glory.

The clock which was previously in St Luke's Church in Cradley Heath, which has since been demolished, has now been earmarked for St Peter's Church in Cradley by campaigners. But they say the project will cost around £15,000 and are appealing for help.

People who donate are also being asked to pick one specific minute out of the day which is important to them, and write 100 words on why and the piece will go into a book at the end of the project.

The project comes after an organ was saved from St Luke's by members of St Peter's where it was restored and now features in the Cradley church.

St Peter's clock fundraising campaign is called 'Just a Minute'. James Brookes of St Peter's, said: "It is hoped that at the end of the project, and once the clock is installed, we can put all the contributions and names into a book and have it on display in the church for future generations.

"Once a minute has been selected by someone it cannot be selected again by someone else, so get in quick!"

To donate and write about your special minute, either post to 3 Greenways, Cradley, Halesowen, B63 2JT or visit www.crowdfunder.co.uk/a-new-clock-for-cradley to make a donation.

Group refuse to give up on battle for Hippodrome

CAMPAIGNERS insists the fight to save Dudley Hippodrome will go on - as the group marks six years since it was set up.

Members of the Dudley Hippodrome Community Group packed out the Ex Servicemens Club in Hall Street to plan their next steps.

The group has a newly-launched petition looking to win support for their scheme to bring the Castle Hill landmark - which is about to celebrate its 80th anniversary - back to life as a venue for the Black Country.

Gordon Downing, aged 81, chairman of the group, said: "The aim of the petition is to get people's backing to say they are interested in bringing this building back to life again."

"We are back as the Dudley Hippodrome Community Group and we intend on not going away. We shall have a big input into what happens to that building in the future."

The council took back control of the building earlier this year saying the campaign group could not raise enough money to see their plans through.

There has been speculation that the site could be used by Dudley College. But campaigners wanting to see it re-open as a venue took their message to the streets on Monday.

Brum traffic jams are fourth worst

COMMUTERS in Birmingham face the fourth worst traffic congestion in the country, according to a new study.

The research by Go Compare has found drivers are on average stuck in traffic in the city for 34 hours each year.

It ranks behind just London, Manchester and Aberdeen for long waits to get into or out of the city.

Birmingham also has the worst two roads for queues across the whole country - the A34 northbound between Robin Hood Lane and the A4540, and the A34 Southbound between the A4540 and Shaftmoor Lane. On average drivers experience a total of 43 hours of delays a year on those stretches.

In 2017 there was an average delay of 47 seconds for every mile travelled on British roads.

Tram may be named after legend Cyrille

A MIDLAND Metro tram could be named after Albion legend Cyrille Regis.

Transport bosses have come up with the idea to honour the Black Country football hero who died in January. Cyrille's widow Julia described the plan as a 'lovely gesture'.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Crafty folk get creative invitation

DATES has been announced for this year's Cradley Heath Arts Festival – from June 3 through to June 9.

Organisers are calling for artists, performers and craftsmen to exhibit their work and share their skills in workshops.

Before then, an open exhibition will start at The Art Yard on Reddall Hill Road, Cradley Heath, from May 28 to June 23. Any special works made during the exhibition will be shown in another exhibition from June 25 to 30.

For more information, call Martyn on 07954 306223, email martynharis8@gmail.com or call Fran on 07952 563725 by May 25.

May the Lego force be with you

A STAR Wars themed Lego exhibition has opened for the summer at Himley Hall. The free admission Amor Lamine Lego exhibition runs until 30 September at the stately home on the Dudley borough-South Staffs border.

Star Wars fans can view a series of themed displays including an Ewok village, the Millennium Falcon, desert and ice plateau with figures and vehicles.

Visitors can also see other items from the Technic and Creator Expert Lego ranges, including a model of Sydney Opera House.

Choirs united at hospice concert

FORMER Crackerjack TV host Don Maclean will be the compere at a choral concert in Dudley next month.

Voices in Harmony from Cradley Heath will be joined by three guest vocal groups for its 21st anniversary charity concert.

Voices in Harmony will be singing in Dudley Town Hall on May 12 at 7pm with Viva Musica, Gentlemen Songsters and Colla Voce. The concert will be raising money for Mary Stevens Hospice. Tickets are available from the box office or Melanie Fletcher on 07702 997320.

Former Scout hut has price tag of £65,000

A FORMER Scout base is up for sale, priced at £65,000.

The land off Douglas Road in Dudley is being marketed by Cottons.

It features a single storey former Scout Hut, in a dilapidated condition. Planning permission was granted for two homes at the site in January.

The site was used by 2nd Dudley Scout Group until 2006, when the group disbanded.

Big drop in passengers on Metro due to works

THE Midland Metro has suffered a drop in passenger numbers with usage down a fifth on Sundays according to new figures.

Overall, the network linking Wolverhampton with Birmingham city centre via West Bromwich saw a nine per cent fall in travelling customers in January, compared to the same month last year.

But weekend travel has been worst hit, with the number of passengers on Saturday down 18 per cent and Sunday down 20 per cent.

Bosses say custom has been impacted by the replacement track works in Bilston Road, which caused disruption before being completed in December.

The project lasted six months and meant the operating line could only go as far as Priestfield Metro Stop, not to Wolverhampton city centre.

A Transport for West Midlands spokesman added: "People get used to alternative modes of travel so it can take a bit of time to get back to where it was before. We expect this to improve in the coming months."

Work has now started on extending the line to Wolverhampton railway station.

Plans are also in the pipeline for a new line from Wednesbury to Brierley Hill and the Merry Hill shopping centre via Dudley. The 11km route with 17 stops is expected to open in 2022.

Childcare prices soar since 2010

THE cost of childcare in the West Midlands has nearly doubled since 2010. Parents and carers in the region are now having to fork out between 39 and 46 per cent more in childcare compared to eight years ago.

Wages have only risen about 16 per cent in the same period, leaving some families struggling, claims the Labour Party. Campaigners have criticised government for 'failing to deliver affordable, sustainable childcare'.

Figures from the Family and Childcare Trust's annual survey of childcare costs show the cost of 25 hours of childcare across the West Midlands has risen by £31.52 for under two year olds, £33.41 for nursery ages two and up, £27.72 for childminding under two and £28.09 for ages two and up.

50 Cent in Brum

RAPPER 50 Cent will play a gig in Birmingham this September. The star will be celebrating the 15th anniversary of his debut album Get Rich Or Die Tryin'. Tickets for the show go on sale on Monday at 9am.

Suspect's death in cell was drug-related

A SUSPECT locked in a Black Country police cell suffered a drug-related death, an inquest has ruled.

Unemployed Christopher Morgan fell from his bunk and onto the floor while sleeping in a cell at Oldbury custody suite on September 21 last year.

He was discovered 'unresponsive' by a police officer conducting regular patrols on the wing but resuscitation attempts failed to revive him.

Jurors at Black Country Coroner's Court deliberated for just under 90 minutes before recording a conclusion of drug-related death.

During the two-day inquest, jurors heard Mr Morgan was arrested in Wolverhampton on suspicion of theft and possession of class A drugs and taken to the Bromford Road suite.

The suspect, of Slaney Road, Walsall, was alleged to have stolen items from a shop and was found with cocaine.

He was initially placed on 30-minute observations but officers were later told to check on him every hour after a medical assessment.

Mr Morgan was later charged and remanded into police custody to appear before magistrates but refused to move to a different cell block with other suspects waiting to go to court.

Pathologist Dr Alexander Kolar revealed the medical cause of death was coronary artery atheroma – heart disease – influenced by cocaine usage. He told jurors there were 10 injuries on Mr Morgan's body but these were not as a result of his time in custody.

Mr Morgan, who used cocaine and heroin daily, also suffered a fractured ribcage caused by attempts to resuscitate him.

The pathologist told the court CCTV from Mr Morgan's cell showed the 38-year-old falling from his bunk and making 'epileptiform movements' just before 1.30am.

He went on to say Mr Morgan suffered with narrowed arteries which could lead to a 'risk of sudden, unexpected death'.

The jury of five men and four women also heard Mr Morgan, who was pronounced dead at 2.25am, tested positive for opiates and negative for cocaine while in custody.

Yow ready for a bostin' big Black Country party?

THE countdown to this year's Black Country Day celebrations has begun.

The annual Black Country Festival this year promises to be the biggest and best yet, with dozens of events taking place across the region.

The festival, which is now in its fifth year, runs between June 30 and July 29, and will include fun days, carnivals, festivals, golf tournaments, transport shows and other activities lined up over the month.

Each bostin' celebration is designed to bring the Black Country communities across Dudley, Wolverhampton, Sandwell and Walsall together.

A month's worth of celebrations are now being fired up across the region for Black Country Festival – including a large family fun day in Dudley town centre.

Other events lined up include Gornal Fun Day, a fun run in Halesowen, Halesowen Carnival, Stourbridge Carnival, Brierley Hill's Brier Fair and more.

Pride

Black Country Day is the highlight of the festival and will take place on July 14. The Dudley fun day, set to include live entertainment in Stone Street Square, a 'radio roadshow', vintage cars and motorbikes, and stalls, will take place on this date to mark the occasion. The event will run between 10am and 5pm.

Looking ahead to the festival, Mayor of Dudley, Councillor Dave Tylor, said: "We want to see people flying their Black Country flag with pride and support the many events taking place to celebrate the region we call home."

"With less than 100 days to go and a fantastic line-up of events already confirmed, this year's Black Country Festival won't disappoint."

Dave Brownhill, chairman of the Black Country Festival, added: "The festival owes many of its successes to the local groups, organisations and volunteers who help make it happen and to the people of the Black Country who turn out each year without fail to support the events."

"Although we have already got some cracking events taking place, there is still time to get involved and add events to the festival line-up."

"I would urge anyone with a great idea for an

Dudley Mayor Dave Tyler with Miss Black Country Alexandra Darby and the Fizzogs get ready for the festival event, whether it is big and small, to get in touch, we would love to hear all about them."

The festival is organised by a committee of volunteers and is supported by Dudley, Sandwell, Walsall and Wolverhampton councils.

Gornal Fun Day will kick the festivities off on Saturday, June 30, with a Punch and Judy show, facepainting, fair rides, a bouncy castle, vintage cars and bikes, a barbecue, a combat re-enactment, birds of prey and stalls. The historic windmill will also be open to the public. The free event will run from noon to 4pm.

Armed Forces Day will be marked at Himley Hall on July 1, a Food Festival will be held at the Bonded Warehouse, in Canal Street, in Stourbridge on July 6, while the Chainmakers Festival will take place at Cradley Heath High Street on July 7.

A total of 2,498 patients waited over four hours at Russells Hall Hospital's emergency department in February. But hospital bosses have vowed to improve the waiting times.

A board report shows 68 per cent of A&E patients were seen within the four hour target time but 95 per cent of patients are supposed to be seen within the four hour window.

Councillor Paul Brothwood, leader of Ukip in Dudley, said: "There are multiple issues - it needs a fundamental review to ensure people get the urgent care they need. The staff are already under immense pressure. It is a lack of funding but any extra funding needs to go to the right place and it needs to be spent on more staff to take the pressures off the current staff. They have almost got an impossible job."

Answers on business fest'

A DROP-IN 'open house' session is being held ahead of the first Black Country Business Festival.

Members of the business community can visit the Black Country Chamber of Commerce office today (Thursday) to ask any questions about the upcoming events. It will run at the office in the Creative Industries Centre, University of Wolverhampton Science Park, Glashier Drive, from 11am to 3pm. No need to register.

Organisers Associate Events will be on hand to offer help to any business or individuals about the festival that runs from April 23 to May 4.

The festival is originated by the chamber and its partner DY5 - Dudley's Business and Innovation Enterprise Zone. There will be 122 events in the two-week programme, making it the region's biggest business event. For details and tickets visit www.blackcountrybusinessfestival.com.

Majority

The report revealed that almost a third of the 7,806 patients seen at Russells Hall in February waited longer than the target time.

Diane Wake, chief executive of The Dudley Group NHS Foundation Trust, said: "We always do our best to make sure patients attending our emergency department are seen as quickly as possible and continue to see, treat, admit or discharge the vast majority of patients within four hours."

"Patients are always prioritised in order of clinical need to make sure that acutely unwell patients receive the urgent medical attention they require as soon as possible."

"We continue to work closely with our partners across Dudley, including local authorities and Dudley Clinical Commissioning Group to improve patient wait times and ensure our patients receive safe and appropriate care at all times."

Student's winning design for exhibition

Warren McCabe-Smith, Harry Bloomer, Edgar Green, Dylan Ellis and Mary Green

GRAPHIC students at Halesowen College have been designing exhibition posters showcasing the work of a local painter and electrician, A. Ewart Chapman.

Curators, Harry Bloomer and Warren McCabe Smith of the Art Yard and founders of Midland Film and Art (MFAA) and Mary Green, daughter of A Ewart Chapman, came to visit BTEC level three graphic design students to judge the competition.

A. Ewart Chapman opened the first electricians shop 'Chapman's' in Cradley Heath, during 1925. He also trained as an artist and captured images on canvas and in sketch books of the industrial landscapes and people living in and surrounding Cradley Heath in the Black Country during the 1900s.

First prize was awarded to Dylan Ellis, while second prize went to Hannah James. A cash prize was awarded to both students, funded by MFAA and Mary Green.

Maninder Padam, graphics lecturer at Halesowen College, said: "It was great to work in partnership on this special project highlighting the work of a well-known local businessman and artist."

"The students love working on live briefs and they were really creative on this project. It was a hard choice just to choose a winner and runner-up."

An exhibition of the work of A. Ewart Chapman is being held at the Art Yard and runs until Saturday.

Name change for Compton Hospice charity

COMPTON Hospice has unveiled a rebrand after people said they were 'frightened' of using its services.

The Wolverhampton-based charity has dropped 'hospice' from its name after residents dubbed it a 'death house' and a 'place you go to die'.

Its services are available to people in Wolverhampton, Dudley, Sandwell, Walsall, South Staffordshire and east Shropshire.

Chief executive Claire Marshall hopes the new identity, which will see it renamed Compton Care, would 'dispel the myths' surrounding hospice care.

She said: "If the very people you seek to serve are frightened of you, it's just heart-breaking. We're on a mission to remove this fear and break down barriers to ensure more patients get referred to us earlier, so we can treat them sooner and help them live better lives. We have got to keep adapting and changing if we are going to serve our patients."

The move came after an 18-month consultation with patients, families, staff, volunteers and referral agencies, including GPs.

The organisation has been supporting patients for the past 35 years. It has 30 shops including in Brierley Hill, Rowley Regis, Cradley Heath, Dudley, Kingswinford, Stourbridge and Sedgley.

Brewery to reopen village pub after refit

A BREWERY has announced the opening date for its 32nd pub. Pennett-based Black Country Ales is reopening of The Cross at Finstall, near Bromsgrove, on April 26 at noon.

The brewery bought the village pub's freehold just before Christmas and carried out a major refurbishment.

A whole host of character ideas in the exhibition

Artist's work is just Dandy

IT was the opening day of an exhibition celebrating the life and work of a famous illustrator.

And it has unearthed some of the never before seen intimate and telling pieces of Sandwell-born cartoonist Charlie 'Chas' Grigg including handwritten notes and unpublished drawings. Visitors flocked to Wednesbury

Museum and Art Gallery for the opening of exhibition yesterday - which will look to honour the cartoonist known as the man behind The Beano and The Dandy.

The show will give those attending the chance to see artefacts, original drawings, letters, and video interviews with Charlie who lived in the Rood End area of Langley as a young boy.

Museum service manager Jane Hanney said: "Lots of local people have expressed an interest and they did not know he was a local person. I think we will get lots of people that read The Beano and The Dandy when they were younger - it is a good opportunity for them to come along and see the works.

"There are things in here that were never published because he was a freelance cartoonist at one time. There is some really nice stuff that has come from his son who is keen to get the story told.

"We have got his desk on display that he used to do all the drawings on. We are hoping to get lots of people come through who are not necessarily into traditional artwork.

"We want to do lots of projects around the exhibition with schools and locals looking into cartooning and illustrating. The hope is it will put the museum on the map."

The exhibition, which runs through until November 2018, will later tour in a smaller form around local libraries. It will be open at Wednesbury Museum and Art Gallery on Wednesday and Thursdays from 11am-4pm and on Saturdays from 2-5pm - with last entry at 30 minutes before closing.

During the exhibition run, there will be many other events, such as the launch of the book Our Best Kept Secret written by Billy Spakemon, otherwise known as Dr Brian Dakin, which tells the story of Charlie's life as well as the project itself.

Thousands are involved in sport sessions

A SMETHWICK community partnership is celebrating after notching up 25,000 participants over the past two years.

The record amount has seen youngsters involved in sport with the Benson Community Project and Sandwell Leisure Trust (SLT) at Hadley Stadium on Wilson Road.

The partnership hosts regular and free football and multi-sport sessions for disadvantaged youngsters and increasing participation levels have seen the weekly number of sessions jump from one to four to meet demand and interest.

Ian King, SLT's assistant manager at Hadley Stadium, said: "The take-up has been incredible, all by word-of-mouth and personal referral. Nobody could have expected the results that this initial Tuesday session has seen, which led to additional football sessions on Thursday and Saturday afternoon (now for ages 5-18) as well as an indoor multi-sports family-orientated session on a Wednesday - and consequently 25,000+ local people seeing, feeling, experiencing and enjoying the benefits."

Benson's Manager, Paul Landucci said: "Hadley's 3G pitch is perfect for us and since we started here I can count on one hand the number of times that only the heaviest snow and ice has defeated us."

Fitness fanatics are powering up

IT is the biggest indoor fitness expedition in the world and attracts athletes, competitors and fans from all around the globe.

And now BodyPower will return to Birmingham's NEC to mark its 10th anniversary and see the fitness community rally together under one roof once more.

Tickets to the event, which runs between May 11 and May 13, cost anywhere from £29.95 to £249.95 depending on the package.

To book visit www.bodypower.com/tickets or call the venue on 0121 7804141.

Date at the dentist's? Google can fill in gaps

WHERE were you between 4pm and 5pm on November 1 last year? Most of us would probably struggle to answer that question, unless something memorable happened at that time.

Well I've just discovered I was at the dentist. Which in itself is not big news, but what is worrying is where I have just got that information from.

Now, maybe I'm naïve, and I would certainly never profess any expertise in new technology, but it never occurred to me when I got my first smart phone three years ago that the good people at Google would be tracking my movements every minute of the day.

But now, having had my attention drawn to the data file that the technology giant keeps on all of its users, I now know that on November 1, 2017, I arrived at the dentist at 4.09pm, and left 4.51.

Google records also show what time I left for work that morning, what route I took, and what time I arrived. It records that I left work at 3.25pm that day because of my dental appointment, and took a slightly different route back.

And that the return journey was a minute quicker than the one in the morning. Is it just me, or is this a touch sinister?

Let's be a realist. We all know that nobody gives you something for nothing, least of all American internet giants, and I always thought that Mark Zuckerberg was a wrong 'un the moment I saw a picture of him giving an interview in flip-flops. But while most of us knew the likes of Google and Facebook were making money out of us one way or another, did any of us really have any idea of how these companies were stockpiling even the most intimate of personal details in order to build these incredibly detailed profiles of us all?

Our interests, our opinions and attitudes, our health and our movements are all analysed in forensic detail, in order to calculate which types of advertising we are most susceptible too.

If the Government tried to monitor us in this way there would be a revolution. Yet unelected, unaccountable tech giants have been doing it for years without us knowing.

Maybe it's closing the door after the horse has bolted, but perhaps the answer is we should all put entirely spurious and inaccurate information on social media.

But one other question. How come car security companies are still charging £400 to fit a tracker, and £150 a year to monitor it, when Google has been doing it for nothing all the time?

In crises never rush ahead of what evidence tells you

Esther McVey – calling for more kids to do part-time jobs

Dita Von Teese – reveals how hard it is to keep her much-scrutinised skin so pale

Yulia Skripal – the daughter of former Russian double agent Sergei Skripal

Nerve agent case: Lessons to learn

AS the Salisbury nerve-agent incident develops, lessons will be learned. The most important point, wisely made from the outset by Jeremy Corbyn, is that in crises such as this you should never rush ahead of what the evidence is telling you. Theresa May was far too hasty to blame the Russian state. Boris Johnson was irresponsible in pinning it on Putin. Can anyone else see this ending with an apology?

WE might also ask where the Daily Star got its theory that Mr Skripal and his daughter "could have been sprayed with the nerve agent from a remote-controlled drone hovering above them as they sat on a bench in Salisbury." This Mission Impossible yarn was attributed to "intelligence sources." Yeah, right.

DITA Von Teese, the doyenne of burlesque performers, has marked her 45th birthday by revealing to the Guardian how hard it is to keep her much-scrutinised skin so pale, living in sunny Los Angeles. A reader responded thus: "Seems like a nice lass. If she really wants to stay pale she should come live with me in east Manchester."

AND talking of dressing up. There is a certain irony in Eddie Izzard being appointed to Labour's national executive as a direct result of the anti-semitism row. While right-on liberals admire Izzard's endless charity work and unwavering commitment to the EU, and smile indulgently at his fondness for frocks and lipstick, did anyone think to ask conservative Jews and Muslims what their religions say about cross-dressing? Thought not.

A CALIFORNIAN teacher who also serves as a reserve police officer was demonstrating gun safety to his class when, well, you can guess what happened next. The gun went off and three students were wounded. It's a reminder that few things are as unpredictable as people and guns.

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

FOLLOWING this incident a reader, worried by plans to arm US teachers, wonders how long it will be before a maniac deliberately targets a fully-armed school to see how many teachers he can kill before they kill him – a variation on the "suicide by cop" madness.

BUT I suspect the first death-by-teacher killing will be less dramatic. There's nothing like a handgun on your hip for escalating a trivial argument to homicide. Be prepared for a US teacher killing another teacher in a staff-room dispute over who washes the coffee mugs or who's been dallying with whom in the stockroom.

FOR a moment, let's overlook the offence caused to Jews by Jeremy Corbyn choosing to meet one of the very few Jewish organisations that other Jews find repellent. What about the offence Christians might feel at Corbyn mixing with a group whose name sounds the same as the most despised character in the Easter story – Jewdas? It is as crass as dropping in for a snack at the Haddorf Hyttler Bavarian Deli. Corbyn always comes up with some wide-eyed, plausible excuse but why does he keep putting himself in such awkward positions? For his advisers it must be like trying to teach a simple lesson to a particularly truculent child, over and over again. Lest we forget, in a throwaway remark last year, Corbyn said: "I don't consider myself the world's greatest intellectual."

STRANGE how many memories have been stirred by the Work and Pensions Secretary Esther McVey calling for more kids to do part-time jobs. My first Saturday job was for a couple of workaholic butchers who slogged from 5am to 6pm and made a fortune in the process. They were a hard-bitten pair. Both had served in the infantry during the war and seen all the inhumanity that man could inflict on man. They swore endlessly, insulted the customers and staff alike, and routinely denounced me as an idle little arse. And yet one Saturday morning I saw these hard nuts weeping like babies in the shop as the news came of a terrible accident at a place called Aberfan. You never forget the first time you see men cry.

ONE of the things the ever-whingeing millennial generation fails to grasp is how hard-up we babyboomers were in years gone by. Everything you needed in life, from food and clothes to washing machines and lawnmowers, was cripplingly expensive. We simply did not possess the quantity or quality of things that people take for granted today. Which is why the final scene in the revived Generation Game (BBC) was a pale imitation of the 1970s original. Back then, people really wanted those prizes. Today, as the contestants acquired their items, you couldn't help feeling that the canteen of cutlery would go straight in the attic and the telescope would be sold on eBay. In a world glutted with consumer goods, who cares about an extra toaster?

TALKING POINT

Queueing dilemma can lead to a frenzy

IT was the dilemma which has plagued polite society for many a year. On entering the foyer during a recent visit to the theatre, we found ourselves at the end of two queues waiting to clear security or, in reality, convince the staff they had nothing of consequence in their bags.

So, it should be a 50-50 choice as to which queue we join . . . or is it? Just at the crucial moment, someone who had come in behind us asked if they could proceed down a third channel, which at first glance either led nowhere or wasn't meant for queueing at all.

"Sure," said the door operative, "you can use all three." So off we toddle, trying not to look at the two obedient queues who must be thinking we are VIP guests or have special tickets for the show.

And after carefully looking straight ahead, for fear of incurring the wrath of the two stationary lines, we fast-tracked ourselves into the main body of the theatre and settled into our seats.

In this case, we made the queueing system work for us, but it's not always like that. Take the bus queue, for instance. Once upon a time, everyone joined the end of the queue.

These days, it's not so straightforward. With sometimes several services pulling in at one stop, a frenzy can overtake even the most patient types, whose main intention is to get on that bus before it leaves without them. Consequently, you will see a throng hovering around the head of the queue waiting to pounce as soon as their bus comes into sight.

The one place you can expect to see disciplined queueing is in a bank. Or at least the one I use. Given four machines in a row, customers are content to form just one queue and file off when an ATM becomes available. In fact that particular discipline must be so deeply ingrained in some of us that the American author Bill Bryson once observed it was what set the English apart from many other countries, where a free-for-all mentality reigns or people are expected to "stay in lane" once they have chosen their queue.

While not quite a national obsession anymore, queueing has given rise to a phrase which we use without thinking. How often, on hearing someone announce their intention to be the next to do something, have you said (or been tempted to say) "Oi, join the queue."

And what of our evening at the theatre? The show ended on a high note, with the audience in equally high spirits, which may explain the rush to leave the building . . . to get to the front of the taxi queue, of course.

Breach calls referendum into question

THE recent discovery that the Brexit 'leave' campaign was in breach of election rules, having spent something in the region of 50 per cent more than the Government-prescribed limit for the campaign, and the response of the Government, raises serious concerns about the integrity of the entire process.

I have acted as election agent for political candidates in the past and I know the rules that apply. I can safely say that any such actions of overspend-ing I have heard of were dealt with by way of punitive actions within a few months. It is alarming that this incident was not dealt with promptly.

Mrs May's assertion that she believes that it did not affect the outcome, in my view is highly unlikely. If a candidate spends more than 50 per cent more than his or her rival, it gives them a massive advantage.

The Leave campaign victory was five per cent. This equates to only 2.5 per cent either way. Well within what an extra 50 per cent in funding would achieve.

Add to that Nigel Farage's uncomfortably close relationship with Donald Trump at the time of the referendum, I wouldn't be surprised if there has been interference by way of funding, advisory assistance, or both. The process is beginning to look as honest as Australian cricket. Therefore we should definitely have a second referendum.

Borrow to solve crisis over homes

WHILE Dudley Council might be celebrating the building of 'dozens of new council homes', it doesn't even replace the hundreds they sell off each year under the Right-to-Buy scheme.

The headlines suggest our council is doing something about providing enough affordable homes, when in reality it continues to get worse. 'Generation Rent' is a reality for younger adults, who often end up in expensive 'rip-off' private rented properties, unable to save for a deposit to buy, or face the prospect of living with their parents into their 30s. Or even worse, the streets await.

The solution is simple. If the Government simply removed the restrictions on council's borrowing to build, and accounted for this the same as Germany and France, hundreds of thousands of new eco-friendly affordable homes could be built, without costing the tax-payer a penny.

City estate's link to classical music great

THE classical music scene is presently celebrating the centenary of the death of the great French composer Claude Debussy. Readers may be interested to know that there is a Wolverhampton connection to the great man.

In 1888 the international singer Maggie Teyte was born and spent her early years living on the Cortaulds estate.

By the time she reached teenage years the family had moved to London and Maggie was developing as a talented singer. She came to the notice of the Opera Comique in Paris which brought her to the attention of Debussy who was looking for a replacement for the lead role in his new opera Pelleas and Melisande. Maggie Teyte was a great success. What an achievement from her humble beginnings.

We must all now stand together

HAVING read most of the correspondence regarding Brexit, I feel that it is time to add my thoughts.

When we voted to go into Europe, we voted for a Free Trade Association, which I supported, although General de Gaulle was reluctant to have us. At the referendum, I voted to leave, because the association which we joined had become an United States of Europe in all but name. We were being told what to do by a load of unelected people all of whom had their own agendas.

It was becoming apparent that we were only wanted because of the money which we were putting in. I wish that now, the people in our country would stop talking us down. We stood on our own for a long time during World War Two in the face of Hitler's evil. If we stood together again, I feel that we could once again be a strong, albeit small country.

Hello baby... it's the zoo's new arrival

First lemur baby at zoo for 21 years

STAFF at Dudley Zoo are celebrating the birth of the first black and white ruffed lemur at the attraction in more than 20 years.

The lemur was born to first-time mother Olivia and dad Broom at the zoo on March 14.

The black and white ruffed lemur – which is classed as critically endangered in the wild – has only just been spotted popping out of its nesting box in the last few days. The currently unnamed lemur is yet to be sexed.

The last were born at the zoo in May 1997, twins Tony and Cherie – named as Tony Blair became Prime Minister.

Pat Stevens, section leader of upper primates, said: "It has been over 20 years and we are absolutely thrilled.

"They are the only primates whose babies stay in the nest for the first few weeks of their lives and it was wonderful to see our new little one make an appearance for Easter."

Sporty store

STAFF at a Black Country supermarket are celebrating after raising more than £1,700 for Sport Relief.

The team at Sainsbury's in Amblecote took part in a variety of fundraising activities during the weeks in the lead-up to Sport Relief on March 23. The store's activities included a trampolining and hula hoop challenge.

Increase in the number of hate crimes reported to police

I will miss my pal 'the Crafty Cockney'

'We'll never see anybody of his like again' says Nigel Pearson seen with Eric Bristow during a darts event held in Brierley Hill

'WE'LL never see anybody like Eric again – he was the image of darts for 20 years.'

Darts stars from the Black Country have paid hailed the legacy of five-time world champion Eric Bristow after his death aged just 60.

The popular player, known as the Crafty Cockney, died after suffering a heart attack in Liverpool.

Sky Sports and Talk Sport commentator Nigel Pearson described Bristow as a one-off. Nigel, who studied at Kingswinford School and Dudley College, worked alongside Bristow for years on the darts commentary circuit.

He said: "I'm humbled and proud to have worked with Eric on TV and at exhibitions for a number of years. What people saw on TV was exactly what he was like. He always told it how it was – whether in public or at the breakfast table.

"My life is certainly richer for meeting Eric and getting to know him and work with him. To think I'll never see him again is awful – and we'll never see anybody of his like again, that's for sure."

Born in London, Bristow later relocated to Staffordshire. He was one of the 16 rebel darts players who left the BDO in 1993 and helped set up a new governing body – the PDC. This set the sport on the path to professionalism, greater TV revenue and huge crowds.

REPORTS of hate crime in the Black Country rose 11 per cent last year, according to new police figures.

A Freedom of Information request found there were 1,633 hate crimes reported in the four boroughs last year – compared to 1,472 in 2016. Walsall saw the largest growth in hate crime reports, with 74 more last year than 2016 while in Dudley there were 291 in 2017 up from 251 the previous year.

The figures show Wolverhampton actually recorded fewer reports, with 375 in 2017 compared to 389 the previous year, but Sandwell saw 624 reports in 2017 compared to 463 in 2016.

The total increase of 161 reports across the Black Country works out as an 11 per cent year-on-year rise.

Midlands MP Preet Gill, who is a former Sandwell Council cabinet member, said hate crime has been on the rise since the EU Referendum in 2016.

She said: "I think we've seen so much hate recently and it's been on the increase since the referendum decision. We've also seen a lot more online hate which has increased massively – particularly against women. On the one hand it's positive that more people are reporting these things, but the problem is still there and it's much bigger than we think it is."

West Midlands Police and Crime Commissioner David Jamieson said: "We are all extremely proud that the Black Country is a diverse area, where people from different backgrounds and cultures get on. That will not be allowed to change. Hate crime is not acceptable and tackling it is a priority."

"People in the West Midlands have different views on certain issues, but one thing that unites us is that we are tolerant, decent people who get on with each other. Hate crimes have been committed by a tiny minority of people."

£250k fund to support crime victims

ORGANISATIONS supporting victims of crime are being invited to apply for up to £20,000 funding.

West Midlands Police and Crime Commissioner David Jamieson set up a victim's fund about four years ago, which pays for support services for people traumatised by crime.

This year £250,000 is available and will be spent offering help to victims of domestic violence, sexual abuse, volume crime, child sexual exploitation, female genital mutilation, forced marriage and honour based violence, hate crime, fatal road traffic collisions and modern slavery.

Funding of up to £20,000 is available for each voluntary or community group that helps people cope. Mr Jamieson said: "Supporting victims of crime is one of my top priorities."

The deadline for applications is 5pm, June 1, at www.westmidlands-pcc.gov.uk/victimsfund1819

Get expert advice from trusted professionals at Rydale Windows (Manufacturing) Limited

Window firm with a wealth of experience

Investing in new windows and doors or a conservatory is a huge commitment, so it is vital to get expert advice from trusted professionals.

Rydale Windows (Manufacturing) Limited have a wealth of experience and will spend time with you, thoroughly discussing your options.

Offering a 10-year insurance backed guarantee, they will never ask for a deposit or stage payments – with customers only paying after the installation is complete.

And after they've left you to enjoy your new purchase, they won't just walk off into the sunset. In the unlikely event of something going wrong with your windows, doors or conservatory you'll be fully covered for after care with your guarantee.

The company, which is based in Halesowen, can also assist with repairs and maintenance problems with your current windows, doors and conservatories regardless of who originally fitted them.

These are people who definitely know what they're doing!

And, if you're scratching your head for ideas on how to fund your new project, they can give you some help. A company spokesman said: "A Barclays Home Improvement Account offers you the ideal way to fund your home improvement."

Rydale Windows (Manufacturing) Ltd's products are fabricated 'in house', utilising their own specialist PVCu manufacturing plant. The company has over 30 years experience, and are a major supplier of quality PVCu installations of windows, doors, conservatories, porches, orangeries and fascia and soffit boards throughout the West Midlands.

"All installations are fully supervised from initial design through to final installation by expert Rydale operatives," added the company spokesman.

The team of expert fitters have a wealth of experience and are recommended for their polite, courteous and tidy approach.

Rydale Windows (Manufacturing) Ltd is Certass registered and Fair Trades and No Rogue Traders Here approved.

In addition the company is fully compliant with Document L Building Regulations.

"Our approach ensures a consistently high level of quality control and also allows our customers to achieve considerable savings by buying direct," added their company spokesman.

Their A rated windows, which reduce heat loss by more than 20 per cent, are fitted as standard and can save over £250 off your heating bill in the first year alone.

At Rydale Windows they take security very seriously. "All of our doors and windows are fitted with high security multi point locks."

Dumped canal dog finds a new home

The dog with firefighters after being rescued by firefighters. Credit: @Oldburyfire

AN abandoned dog which was found wandering over a frozen Black Country canal during Arctic conditions has been given a new home. Firefighters had to rescue the dog, thought to be an Akita breed, after the alarm was raised by a concerned member of the public.

Watch commander Adam Joyce, of Oldbury Fire Station, suspected the 'old boy' might have been 'kicked out' by his owners. But it has been a happy ending after the canine was found a new home. After being rescued, he was taken to vets who checked him over before he was taken to kennels. From there he was spotted by his new owners.

Firefighters were told of the good news by K9 Search UK. Commander Joyce said: "He looked quite nervous and distressed but he has got a big coat. He is like a bear." The dog - who was not micro-chipped - was found wandering over the frozen waters of the Birmingham Canal next to Hange Road in Tividale on March 2.

Taxi drivers furious over city's boom in licences

TAXI drivers in Dudley claim they are losing out after Wolverhampton council granted more than 4,000 licences in just one year.

They say cabbies are flocking to the city council for licences because of its super-fast online application process, which takes 20 working days or less and costs just £69.

The key fact is that once they have their licence they are not required to operate only in Wolverhampton.

It has been branded a 'joke' by Shaz Saleem, who is the adviser for the West Midlands Drivers' Association, which looks after 4,000 cab drivers.

Mr Saleem claimed some taxi drivers were taking advantage of a 'loophole', which allows applicants to receive new licences in Wolverhampton despite having it revoked by other councils.

Now it is claimed taxi drivers in neighbouring boroughs like Dudley are missing out on fares because of the increase in cabs on the roads.

Drivers cannot apply online in Walsall or Sandwell. But they can submit their application online in Dudley. However, all three are more expensive than Wolverhampton.

by Annabal Bagdi

It has proved lucrative for Wolverhampton, which made £1.29 million from taxi licensing in 2016/17.

Licensing manager Chris Howell said the council took passenger safety 'extremely seriously'.

"Wolverhampton council has invested in a state-of-the-art online system which enables us to process licences much faster than most other areas. This makes us an attractive proposition to drivers. Our standards are among the best anywhere in the country and have been recognised by the Home Office."

Museum and gallery to re-open as council staff training base

THE former Dudley Museum and Art Gallery building is to be brought back into use as a council staff training base.

Bosses are pressing ahead with plans to re-open the landmark building, which closed after more than a century under cost-cutting measures.

The building in St James's Road will become an 'innovation hub' which will also host events such as conferences.

Councillor Ian Kettle, the Conservative-run authority's regeneration boss, said he believed the move would make good use of the former museum and gallery building.

Bosses have previously discussed what should be done with the historic building but it has remained largely unused since its controversial closure in December 2016.

Ross on Black Country beat

POLICE in the Black Country were joined by a special guest on their patrols. Former EastEnders actor Ross Kemp followed officers on the job as part of a new TV show.

The TV hard man, who has since gone on to forge a successful presenting career, posed for a picture with West Midlands Police officers after joining them on their patrols.

The force's Wolverhampton and Walsall Response account tweeted: "Ross Kemp and the production team where filming us doing our jobs. We should say thank you to them for taking the time to talk to the public. No one was pushed away or told no to a selfie. What a genuinely decent celebrity."

Kemp was also spotted popping into McDonald's restaurants at Bentley Bridge and in Stourbridge.

Councillor Kettle said: "I understand it is being altered and used as a training centre. It will be more convenient for a lot of staff who work in Dudley. Parts of it would be used for training council staff and briefings."

"It was a tired building and I think it needs regenerating into a more modern facility. It needs smartening up and I'm all in favour of it being used in this way."

Displays and collections were shifted from the museum and art gallery to the Dudley Archives on Tipton Road following the closure.

The museum had been a fixture in Dudley since 1912 but was closed the council in a bid to save £150,000 a year. A campaign was launched to save it but bosses went ahead with the closure.

Labour councillor Khurshid Ahmed said: "We want to maximise the income and opportunities there. The more staff training and conferences there are, the more people will attend the building and make full use of it. I welcome opportunities to utilise it properly and generate the necessary income."

On the run for Action Heart centre

Runners were all smiles at start of the rescheduled annual charity race in Dudley last weekend

A CHARITY race, postponed due to snow, took place at the weekend, attracting almost 300 runners.

The Action Heart 5 raised around £7,000 for the charity, which runs a cardiac rehabilitation programme at Russells Hall Hospital in Dudley.

On Sunday, 280 runners set off from the start line at Russells Hall Hospital, before heading into Dudley, down Himley Road and into Pensnett. It finished back at the start with crowds cheering as the runners came in.

Joy Brown, from Action Heart, said: "It went very well and was well-attended considering it had to be rescheduled. The amount raised will go toward the charity's work helping people who are in cardiac rehabilitation."

The race was originally due to take place in March, but was called off due to the arctic conditions.

The Action Heart Centre is based at the hospital.

Seven new rail stations are planned

SEVEN new railway stations are on the way for the West Midlands, including one at Merry Hill shopping centre and another at West Midland Safari Park.

The multi-million pound overhaul could also include two stations between Wolverhampton and Walsall, it has been confirmed. One of those could see the revival of Willenhall station in Bilston Street while the other could be the reopening of Darlaston's James Bridge station.

A new train and Metro station at the Merry Hill shopping centre in Brierley Hill could mean passengers would be able to get to the shopping centre by train for the first time.

Heritage

Meanwhile West Midlands Railway trains would also run on the Severn Valley Railway line for the first time to serve a new station at West Midland Safari Park.

The main line would link up with the Severn Valley heritage line from Stourbridge under plans, said West Midland Railways spokesman Nick Brown.

The proposals rest on the outcome of 'feasibility assessments', say the operator, which has now officially taken control of Wolverhampton Railway Station from Virgin Trains.

Next phase of Paradise set to start

Bird's eye view from a crane across the Paradise Birmingham site where offices are due for completion next year

TWO new tower cranes are taking their place on Birmingham's skyline as the next construction phase of the Paradise redevelopment swings into action.

The second building at Paradise, Two Chamberlain Square, is currently having a pair of tower cranes installed on site to help it towards completion in 2019.

It is an eight storey, 183,000 sq ft building that will have restaurant, bar and retail spaces at ground level.

It will complete the first phase of Paradise Birmingham that also includes the 172,000 sq ft One Chamberlain Square that is fully let to PwC and is due for hand-over to the firm next year.

Brum's £25m Games fee

BIRMINGHAM shelled out £25 million to become host city for the 2022 Commonwealth Games, it has been revealed.

The city agreed to a £20m hosting fee, plus a £5m grant for development work.

That is nearly £10m more than the original host city, Durban, had offered to the Commonwealth Games Federation. Durban was stripped of the Games last year – paving the way for Birmingham's successful bid. The South African bid had failed to meet the deadlines to pay any instalments of the £10.5m they were supposed to pay to host the event.

Birmingham paid a first instalment of £4m almost immediately after they were awarded the Commonwealth Games last December. That payment left them with £2.1m reserves in the bank. Commonwealth Games chief operating officer Darren Hall told a meeting held at the current Games host in the Gold Coast the organisation's 'cash flow challenges were severely advanced'.

Meanwhile, rehearsals are under way for more than 2,000 young people from across the region. They will take part in the ceremony which will mark the end of the Gold Coast games.

Intriguing 'ghost' play but lacking in chills

Actors Maggie McCarthy, Carli Norris, Michael Hanratty and Annabel Smith at Bantock House

THIS intriguing adaptation of Henry James' classic ghost story, or – depending on your view – psychological thriller, is an eloquent play but sadly lacking in chills.

The 1898 novella has been made into an opera, a classic 1961 film The Innocents and is also an inspiration for Susan Hill's The Woman In Black and Nicole Kidman movie The Others.

Adapter Tim Luscombe has chosen to frame the tale about a 'haunted' Victorian governess as a series of flashbacks when the 50-year-old teacher is confronted about a dark and apparently shameful episode that took place 30 years earlier when she cared for two orphaned children in a country mansion. The Governess soon becomes convinced that her young charges, Flora and Miles, are under the malign influence of the ghosts of former governess Miss Jessel and her brutish lover, the former valet Quint.

A very capable cast led by former EastEnders Carli Norris as the repressed and increasingly hysterical Governess were hampered by the confusing jumps between past and present and the bewildering use of the only male actor, the impressive young Michael Hanratty, in three roles – child Miles, his caddish uncle and the spectral Quint.

Economies of scale may have limited the scope to scare but I can't help thinking a more effective use of lighting, a mask or make-up could have made the apparitions more creepy.

However, the play's sudden tragic conclusion left the audience with a talking point over whether the phantoms ever only existed in the mind of the Governess.

Continues at the Grand to Saturday.

Worker at Asda stole £2,800 haul of goods

Mothers have their say

Julie Oakley with James, aged five months, at the workshop

MORE than 100 mothers have shared their experience of maternity care in the Black Country.

Senior health professionals met up with those attending workshops across Dudley and Birmingham in efforts to address the re-shaping of maternity care within the region.

The response will help form an action plan for Black Country maternity which will outline how services should be run by 2020. Julie Oakley, mother of five-month-old James, said: "It is really important to be able to share my maternity experience and listen to other mother's share their stories."

Following the events, which took place on March 27 in Dudley and March 28 in Birmingham, the plan will be presented to the Local Maternity System Board in May.

A SUPERMARKET worker stole almost £3,000 worth of goods in six weeks from his employer, a court heard.

Javed Miah worked at the Asda store in Dudley for seven months before turning to crime, a judge heard. The 25-year-old, who was in debt, ordered goods from the shop and then arranged for other people to pick them up without paying for them. He balanced the books by claiming a refund on each item but this still left the store with a stock shortage.

Mr Richard McConaghy, prosecuting, explained that the £2,800 haul included game consoles and other electrical goods.

Miah, who was responsible for the click and collect section of the store, as well as home deliveries, refused to name those who picked up the stolen goods. But he stressed they were simply doing him a favour and were not involved in the racket.

Resigned

It ran between November 22 and December 31 last year but was uncovered by supermarket chiefs, who became alarmed by the abnormal number of refunds being recorded.

An internal investigation was launched during which the defendant admitted he was responsible for the disappearance of the items which had been sold. He resigned and police were alerted, the court heard.

Mr Anthony Cartin, defending, said: "The refund was sought to cover up the original purchase for which money had not been taken by the store. Then it was sold by him. The till would never be down but the stock was. As soon as he was disciplined by the store he resigned."

Miah from Beechwood Road, West Bromwich, who was of previous good character, pleaded guilty to fraud by abuse of position and was given a community order with 200 hours of unpaid work. He was also ordered to pay £1,000 compensation to Asda.

Appeal to ensure all dogs are on a lead

DOG owners across the Black Country are being urged to keep their pets on leads.

National charity Guide Dogs has launched its 'Take the Lead' campaign, calling on owners to keep their pets on a lead when a guide dog is nearby.

Seven guide dog attacks were reported in the Shrewsbury, Staffordshire and Black Country last year, the charity said.

Guide Dogs researcher Rachel Moxon said: "Guide dogs are life-changing for those living with sight loss, helping their owners live life to the full."

"Attacks on our dogs destroy confidence and can mean a guide dog owner once again loses their freedom and independence."

"Putting your dog on a lead when you see a guide dog working, allows you to have more control over the situation. Even if you know your dog is well-behaved, it's always better to be safe than sorry."

Mothercare may axe third of stores in retail downturn

BABYWARE chain Mothercare is looking at closing up to a third of its UK stores as part of a rescue plan for the struggling business.

It is understood to be discussing a possible company voluntary arrangement (CVA) as it looks to slash costs by cutting stores and reducing rent payments.

Mothercare has been in talks with its lenders for weeks and previously said it is looking to reduce its portfolio of UK stores to between 80 and 100 from 143 at present. It closed its Mander Centre store in Wolverhampton 18 months ago and its outlet in Shrewsbury four years ago and now has stores locally at Merry Hill, Walsall and in Stafford, Telford, Tamworth and Solihull.

Less than a decade ago the chain had 370 stores nationwide but has suffered from competition with the big supermarket chains and online retailers.

It would become the latest in a string of high street names to follow the CVA route to cutting costs, shutting stores and axing jobs, in the wake of fashion chains New Look and Select, while Carpetright is considering the same move.

So far 2018 has been a nightmare year for the retail sector with Toys R Us and Maplin both facing closure after collapsing into administration.

Nightmare

A Mothercare spokesman said: "As announced in the update on March 21, the discussions with our lenders on the terms of our existing financial facilities are progressing constructively."

"We expect those discussions to conclude before the preliminary results in May, and the lenders have agreed to defer the testing of our financial covenants that were due on March 24."

"We are also exploring additional sources of financing to support and maintain the momentum of our transformation programme and we are engaged in preliminary discussions on securing such additional financing."

Mothercare has already appointed accountants KPMG to advise on refinancing and last week the embattled retailer parted company with its chief executive, Mark Newton-Jones, replacing him with former Tesco man David Wood, who joined Mothercare from US grocery and pharmaceuticals giant Kmart.

Play from Down Under

Lee Morgan-Salcombe stars as hiker Joe in Ladies Down Under LADIES have gone from rags to riches – and now to Australia – in a play put on for a drama society's 70th anniversary.

Enville Street Dramatic Society, in Stourbridge, are celebrating the landmark anniversary by putting on a show of Ladies Down Under at Ambleside Holy Trinity Church Hall from April 18 to 21.

It is a sequel to last year's hit performance of Ladies Day, which has been nominated for an award by the National Operatic and Dramatic Association Midlands Area.

The society will find out if they are successful at an awards ceremony at Stourbridge Town Hall on Sunday.

Ladies Down Under, by Amanda Whittington, will star the same four actresses as Ladies Day with Carey Esthoph as Pearl, Jo Foley as Jan, Sandra Harrold as Shelley and Gaynor Whitehouse as Linda.

The show follows on from when the ladies from Hull won a fortune at the races. Now the four are celebrating with the trip of a lifetime.

Tickets cost adults £8 and Wednesday evening only concessions cost £6. Visit www.envillestreetdramatic.org.uk or call Sue on (01384) 356600.

Football ground safe-standing plan is rejected

WEST Bromwich Albion's application to introduce a safe-standing section at The Hawthorns next season has been rejected.

The Baggies had offered to run a pilot scheme in the top tier of the Smethwick End for both home and away fans. The formal application was made in October.

Clubs in the top two tiers of English football must have all-seater stadia, but the Baggies had hoped to capitalise on calls to pilot safe-standing and were ready to install railed seating this summer.

But Minister for Sport, Tracey Crouch, says there are no plans to change the all-seater policy and that their pilot is not needed. The decision was described as 'short-sighted' by Mark Miles, Albion's director of operations.

Amy's marathon challenge after scare over sight

A MOTHER is preparing to take part in the London Marathon despite having almost lost her sight.

Amy Shillingford, aged 28, from Dudley, is gearing up for the big race on April 22 to raise money for the Royal National Institute of Blind People.

She has joined Team RNIB after the charity supported her when she suffered a detached retina four years ago which almost left her blind in her right eye. But her sight was saved with laser treatment and surgery.

The London Marathon will be Amy's first and she had to fit training while looking after her two children, aged six and three. Amy hopes to cross the finish line in four and a half hours. See www.justgiving.com/amy-shillingford

Karate kid Joey is an inspiration to patients

A SCHOOLBOY who battled cancer is using his passion for karate to help other young patients.

Joey Kehoe, a pupil at Hagley Catholic High School, was diagnosed with a brain tumour when he was just four. Joey was admitted to Birmingham Children's Hospital where he underwent surgery to remove the tumour.

The specialist neuro-oncology team discovered the tumour was cancerous meaning a year-long course of intense treatment. This included 33 rounds of radiotherapy, chemotherapy lasting more than eight months and more surgery.

His father Darren, a quantity surveyor, said: "It was a long and arduous journey, with lots of tough days, but we're so proud that he's now doing so well."

Darren and Kathryn, Joey's mum, suggested he go to the Young Gloves Karate club in Kidderminster and since taking up the martial art in 2013 he has gone from strength-to-strength. Darren, 48, from Stourport, explained: "He had some issues following his treatment, as you would expect, but sport has really helped him to improve his co-ordination skills and his core strength. Most importantly, it's helped give back his confidence and self-esteem."

"We can't recommend sports and exercise enough as a way of aiding recovery - it does amazing things."

The neuro-oncology team at the hospital runs Sport for All events for the young people they care for.

Senior nurse specialist Sharon Beardmore and her team decided to begin hosting the events, which have been running since April last year.

Joey, now a brown belt, was a special guest at the latest session run by the nurses. Along with his sensei (teacher), Justin Thomas, and members of his karate club, he delivered a 'boxercise' class.

Sharon said: "Joey is a perfect example of exercise being a valuable tool in rehabilitation."

Joey Kehoe, with Sensei Justin Thomas, showed his skills at Birmingham Children's Hospital

£30k restoration project go-ahead for canal bridge

AN old canal bridge is to be restored after council bosses approved £30,000 for the project.

The cash will bring back to life the Grade II-listed Blackbrook Junction Bridge on the Dudley No.2 Canal in Netherton. Netherton councillor Christine Perks welcomed the move saying the restoration would benefit the area.

Dudley Council's cabinet approved the funding at a meeting in February with the cash to come from the Community Infrastructure Levy.

It is thought the bridge dates back to the 19th century when the canal was built. In its current state the bridge is covered by graffiti.

Councillor Perks said: "I think this is great news. I am a great fan of canals and a member of the Canal and River Trust. There are some fabulous walks along the canals. You now see herons flying around the canal. When we were children we never saw them."

The bridge forms part of Blackbrook Road which runs between Hill Street and Narrowboat Way. The road is open to the public but no longer to motor vehicles, said Councillor Perks.

The bridge will be looked after by the Canal and River Trust, which maintains waterways around England.

Carillion jobs go but 10,000 have been saved

ANOTHER two dozen Carillion workers are facing redundancy this week, but the number of jobs saved since the company's collapse has now topped the 10,000 mark.

A further 179 former Carillion staff have been transferred to new employers taking over contracts from the failed Wolverhampton-based construction and services group.

But 23 have been told they are 'no longer require' and will lose their jobs this week.

So far 10,125 jobs have been saved and 1,825 jobs have been made redundant through the liquidation.

The future of more than 5,000 former Carillion staff still hangs in the balance, including more than 200 still working at the company's headquarters in Wolverhampton.

Sale

The city centre office block itself, which was owned by a private property company, is now up for sale for around £3 million.

A spokesperson for the Official Receiver said: "More than 10,000 of Carillion's pre-liquidation workforce have now found secure ongoing employment, following the transfer of 179 staff to new employers."

"Regrettably 23 employees whose positions are no longer required as Carillion's business transfers to new suppliers will leave the business later this week."

"I am continuing to talk with potential purchasers

by Simon Penfold

for Carillion's remaining contracts and will keep staff, elected employee representatives and unions informed as these arrangements are confirmed."

The totals of jobs saved and lost does not include those attached to contracts where a potential buyer has declared an intention to purchase but the deal has yet to be formally sealed.

Carillion had 450 contracts with Government departments and the public sector, from school meals and cleaning prisons to maintenance of thousands of Armed Forces homes across the UK.

Meanwhile Britain's big four accountancy firms will face fines of up to £10 million as part of new regulatory powers aimed at clamping down on 'seriously poor audit work'.

The changes comes amid mounting criticism of the Financial Reporting Council regarding its oversight of the accounting profession following the collapse of Carillion.

HOME OWNERS AGED 50+

Protect your home from future care home fees

Does this sound familiar to you?

"We've made our Wills, leaving everything to each other first and then to the children."

These are known as Mirror Wills. Sounds reassuring enough, doesn't it? But your children could end up with very little - or even nothing at all.

If your surviving spouse has to go into care, they will have to use their assets to pay for their care until they get down to their last £14,250. Therefore, it's not a good idea to leave your half share of the home to your surviving partner but instead leave them the USE of your share. This can be achieved by making new Property Trust Wills.

These legitimate steps must be taken while you are both alive and in reasonably good mental health. It is therefore important for couples to act NOW!

Most of our clients come to us having already made standard Mirror Wills, or they've been meaning to make a Will but simply haven't got around to it. With Property Trust Wills, yourself and your spouse/partner each leave your half share of the home to the children in Trust, but state that they are not to receive it during the lifetime of the surviving spouse/partner.

This half would then NOT be included in any future means test calculations for care fees. The surviving spouse is free to sell their share of the home, raise cash or move house. Your children are powerless to intervene but simply have to wait for their inheritance, as they would have done previously.

Stage roles like this are in my blood . . .

Returning to Blood Brothers is like greeting an old friend for actress Lyn Paul, who found fame with the New Seekers in the early 1970s before finding more recent success and critical acclaim in the long-running West End musical.

For 20 years, she has played the part of Mrs Johnstone at the Phoenix Theatre and on a UK tour. There are times when you'd expect her to know it in her sleep.

"You know what, strangely enough, I was lying in bed the other night going through the opening song and I reached one part, but for the life of me couldn't remember the rest of it, and I had to get up and go downstairs to get the script and go through it! At 4 o'clock in the morning, ridiculous! So it's playing on my mind obviously (laughs)!"

The show will feature at Wolverhampton's Grand Theatre from Monday until April 21, after surpassing 10,000 performances in London's West End.

Fans can look forward to a glitzy production of a musical that has been christened the 'Standing Ovation Musical', with a score including Bright New Day, Marilyn Monroe and the emotive hit Tell Me It's Not True.

We caught up with Lyn to find out what she loves about the new touring production:

"I will treat it like a new show. Obviously it's easier because I do know what I'm doing and because it is so well directed. When I first started it was directed by Bill and also Bob Tomson, so all those notes I have I've still got written down and a lot of that will come back to me because I think the way they directed it is just second to none. I'm desperately looking forward to going back and bringing that with me."

ULTIMATE

You played the role of Mrs Johnstone from 1997 right up until 2000, then revived it in 2008 and then again in 2012 for the final two weeks of its West End run – fair to say it's your ultimate role?

"Oh absolutely, without a shadow of a doubt! Mrs J is just me. Everything that she's going through I feel, the way Willy's (Russell) written it is so easy to get over to an audience as it's actually written as you would speak. Sometimes, when people write a script, you look at it and think 'Well, that's not how I would say it'. But this is so perfectly written and so easy, it just flows, and I just feel that Mrs J is me, so it makes it very easy to play."

No doubt a huge factor when accepting the role again for the tour?

"Absolutely. And also, because of Bill (Kenwright). When I first played Mrs J, I was doing cabaret and he took me away from all that. I wrote to Bill and asked him if he would consider me for the role of Mrs J, he sent me a letter back by return post, and less than three weeks later I was waiting on the stage at the Phoenix Theatre (West End) to start rehearsals and I cannot tell you what it did to me. I'd never acted and I thought 'Oh my god, I can't do this!' . But Bill showed so much faith in me that I will always go back. He's only got to click his fingers and I'll be straight in, no problem."

So it was a chance letter that changed your life?

"Oh yes, absolutely. I didn't know Bill, although I knew Carl Wayne, who was The Narrator at that point, and he came to see me in a cabaret show I was in down the road from the Phoenix Theatre and he told me 'You know, you should go and audition for Mrs Johnstone'. I didn't even know Blood Brothers, so I asked him about it and said 'I can't, I don't act'. But he said I should give it a go. So I went back and discussed it with my mum and she said 'Oh, Bill Kenwright, he's a very nice man'. I said 'How do you know? You've never met him', and she said 'Well I've seen him interviewed and he's a very nice man, write to him! Typical Northern mum! So I did, I wrote and just said 'Would you consider seeing me for the role of Mrs J, I'm not Liverpoolian but I can get into the accent', gave him all that, and I posted it off. Two days later I got a return letter saying 'Don't worry about the Liverpoolian accent love, we'll sort that, you don't need one, you're a Northerner, and I'd love to see you'. And that was it. And, from that moment on, we became good friends."

Family matters – Lyn stars in the acclaimed hit Blood Brothers

While Blood Brothers is what you're synonymous with, you also toured with Cabaret for Bill – how did you get involved with that?

*I can relate to her to a great extent . . .
it just happens*

"I got an email from him which said he'd like to put me up for Fräulein Schneider, and how would I feel about it? I wrote back and said I would love it, he sent me the script and the parts he wanted me to do, asked me to come into the office, I went in and went through the songs, went up to Bill's office, we went through the scenes, and that was that. Bill has been a very good friend to me and a very good boss, he's been very loyal to me, and I will always be there."

You starred in Cabaret with Will Young, who started out as a pop star like you did – how hard or easy was it to develop acting skills, particularly with no experience?

"Well, you're not being yourself, it's totally different to standing on stage and being yourself and having to make a speech at the end of a gig. I'm useless at that. But when you go on stage and you're playing a character, it just seems to happen for me. Especially Mrs J, because I can relate to her so well being a northern mum and having gone through a lot of struggles in my life, lots of lows. I can relate to her to a great extent, so I feel that it just comes, it just happens."

Tickets are available from the venue.

Hot property – Arcade Fire

Hotting up for a great night indie arena with Arcade Fire

CANADIAN indie rockers Arcade Fire are blazing a trail once again with their latest album Everything Now, and fans have the chance to see them live when they perform at the Genting Arena on Sunday.

Consisting of husband and wife Win Butler and Régine Chassagne, along with Win's younger brother William Butler, Richard Reed Parry, Tim Kingsbury and Jeremy Gara, all the band's studio albums have received nominations for best alternative music album at the Grammys.

Founded in 2000 by friends and classmates Win Butler and Josh Deu, the band came to prominence in 2004 with the release of their critically acclaimed debut album Funeral. Their second studio album, Neon Bible, won them the 2008 Meteor Music Award for best international album and the 2008 Juno Award for alternative album of the year. Their third studio album, The Suburbs, was released in 2010 to critical acclaim and commercial success, followed by Reflector in 2013, which was the score for feature film Her, seeing band members William Butler and Owen Pallett nominated for an Academy Award.

It's a unique sound they produce, with members playing guitar, drums, bass guitar, piano, violin, viola, cello, double bass, xylophone, glockenspiel, keyboard, synthesizer, French horn, accordion, harp, mandolin and hurdy-gurdy, with the multi-instrumentalists switching duties throughout the show.

Music bug took Lisa all around the world

Singer Lisa Stansfield's childhood was the biggest influence on her career.

She grew up listening to the classic records that her mother played by such artists as Patsy Cline, Brenda Lee and Diana Ross. "My mum used to listen to that stuff all the time."

"I suppose it was innate – I would have been listening to that in her tummy. I came out singing it. Those are your teachers, all those people."

Lisa's early hits owed much to that roster of influences, as All Around The World and All Woman told stories – just like the records performed by her own idols. "I love telling stories. Vocally I adopted the soul element of the music. Lyrically a lot of the time I'm a bit country-fied – I do like to tell a tear-jerking story. It's really corny but I think there's a line – if you mess yourself up you mess everything up, I'm just on the border of it."

"So I just learned that from a really, early age. I just got to know the songs off by heart."

"I supposed when you start singing along with something and it feels special and it has a sensation, an actual physical sensation – it just felt incredible. And that sensation has just carried on and on. I think my mum and dad thought it was going to end at some point."

They sort of humoured me for a while. But, no, I couldn't live without singing and stuff, really," she says with a sincerity that is unshakable. "Singing is a massive part of me."

She is happy to have strong roots in the North of England, though she and her husband have lived for long periods in New York and Ireland. "Me and Ian travelled for so long, where we are together that's our home. I didn't particularly miss anywhere. The only time you miss something is when you get back and you realise you missed it."

● Lisa plays at the Symphony Hall, Birmingham on Tuesday.

Baddiel's family affairs on show

HE'S big mates with West Bromwich's Frank Skinner, who lives down his road, and now David Baddiel is bringing his acclaimed one-man-show, My Family: Not The Sitcom to Dudley Town Hall on Thursday.

Covering subjects such as ageing, infidelity, dysfunctional relatives, moral policing on social media, the show is a massively disrespectful celebration of the lives of David Baddiel's late sex-mad mother, Sarah, and dementia-ridden father, Colin.

Ship comes in for Sting with musical

The Last Ship, the acclaimed musical by pop superstar Sting comes to Birmingham's New Alexandra Theatre from Monday to Saturday. Initially inspired by Sting's 1991 album The Soul Cages and his own childhood experiences, the production tells the story of a community amid the demise of the shipbuilding industry in Tyne and Wear, with the closure of the Swan Hunter shipyard. This personal, political and passionate new musical from the multiple Grammy Award winner, is an epic account of a family, a community and a great act of defiance. It stars The Upper Hand star Joe McGann, Charlie Hardwick, Richard Fleeshman, recently seen as Sky Masterson in the UK tour of Guys and Dolls, and Frances McNamee.

Apparently, so impressed were the 'powers that be' (including Simon Cowell) with Declan Donnelly's solo performance at the helm of Saturday Night Takeaway over the Easter weekend, that they decided there and then to confirm him as the sole host of this year's Britain's Got Talent. The auditions are, of course, pre-recorded, meaning the Georgie duo will be presenting together as usual for the time being. Regular viewers will know that, at this early stage, there's every chance that a true star in the making might be found amongst the throngs of hopefuls auditioning – but there will also be no end of people whose hopes, dreams and ambitions far outweigh their actual abilities.

Ordeal by Innocence (BBC1, 9pm)

The Argyll children are forced to relive the events of the terrible Christmas Eve when Rachel was murdered to finally uncover the truth about who killed her and why. However, they soon discover that everyone in the family had a reason for wanting to get rid of her. Arthur's assertion that he is telling the truth puts his life in danger, prompting a race against time to save his life, while Leo and Gwenda's wedding descends into violence as a vengeful party plots to take the law into their own hands. Bill Nighy, Anthony Boyle, Anna Chancellor, Morven Christie, Crystal Clarke, Christian Cooke, Alice Eve and Matthew Goode star. Last in the series.

Comedy horror, starring Simon Pegg, Nick Frost, Kate Ashfield, Dylan Moran, Lucy Davis, Bill Nighy and Penelope Wilton. (2004)

Neil is getting all fired up about a new wi-fi mast

It was a month in which an asteroid was named in honour of Freddie Mercury to mark what would have been his 70th birthday, the Summer Paralympic Games opened in Rio, Stan Wawrinka won the US Open men's tennis singles title, Sam Allardyce quit as England manager - and the BBC's Landmark Sitcom Season was in full swing.

Most viewers will remember that the last in that list saw the return of much-missed favourites such as Porridge and Goodnight Sweetheart, as well as a look at the early life of Keeping Up Appearances' Hyacinth Bucket.

But sneaking in there was a selection of pilot editions for various prospective programmes, including Motherland (a full run of which aired last November) and Home From Home.

The latter is back this week and is making the leap from BBC Two to prime-time BBC One, so clearly its makers have heaps of faith in it.

Johnny Vegas heads the cast as Neil Hackett who, along with his wife

Fiona, has achieved his long-cherished dream of moving to a lodge in the Lake District. However, it seems that at every turn, their wealthy, effortlessly superior' neighbours the Dillons manage to spoil it.

Will the Hacketts ever get the upper hand?

"We are thrilled with the news that Home From Home is going to series and cannot wait to get to work," claims Vegas when news of the full series was announced almost 18 months ago. "We all felt we were on to something very special whilst making the pilot and were rewarded with some wonderful feedback."

"We have so much more to explore with these characters and relish the opportunity to share where they go from here. The opportunity to work closely with Home From Home's creators, fellow cast members and producer Rebecca Papworth is one I'm chuffed to have. We are absolutely chomping at the bit to deliver a worthy addition to BBC One's rich comedy pedigree."

The BBC's controller of comedy commissioning, Shane Allen, adds: "Featuring a knock-out cast, rich comedy themes - the northern family versus the southern one - plus those on their way up the class ladder alongside those on their way down."

"There is something for everyone to relate to and it has a big heart making it the perfect fit for BBC One. We need cheering up now more than ever and it's about time Johnny Vegas was front and centre of a broad appeal sitcom."

Regular TV viewers may want to point out to Mr Allen that Vegas already appears in Still Open All Hours, but while that is rather cosy, Home From Home promises to have more bite.

Vegas isn't the only big name to sign up either - Adam James and Emilia Fox, who featured in the pilot, are returning too, alongside Pearce Quigley and Susan Calman.

And with a pedigree like that behind it, the series can surely be nothing else but a hit.

Johnny Vegas and Niky Wardley star in Home from Home, Friday, BBC1, 9.30pm

BEST OF THE REST

THURSDAY
Not Going Out BBC1, 8.30pm
 Lee Mack and Sally Bretton star in the domestic comedy which sees the couple appear to go from one disaster to the next, while coping with their three kids, Lucy's disapproving parents, Lee's feckless dad Frank and their world-weary friends Toby and Anna. In this final episode, Lucy begins to consider having a boob job, encouraged by Anna, wondering whether it will help her regain some of the femininity she felt in her youth.

FRIDAY
The Button BBC1, 8.30pm
 From the makers of Taskmaster, the show that proved there's more to Dave than repeats of QI, comes this intriguing new game show. It's set simultaneously in the houses of five UK families, whose members tackle a number of fiendishly fun challenges requiring skill, determination and intellect from the comfort of their living rooms over the course of a day. With different amounts of money up for grabs for each challenge, The Button lets the most successful household pocket everything they've won during the show. However, the losing teams get nothing.

Stephen: The Murder that Changed a Nation BBC1, 9pm
 In April 1993, 18-year-old black student Stephen Lawrence was murdered in an unprovoked attack by a group of white youths. Now as the 25th anniversary approaches, this fascinating three-part documentary, which is shown across consecutive evenings, sets out to tell the story not just of the crime, but the subsequent investigation which would turn into one of the longest, most complex and arguably mishandled in the Metropolitan Police's history, allowing the suspected killers to escape justice for nearly 20 years.

Wednesday Watchdog Live BBC1, 8pm
 There's nothing worse than forking out for a purchase - whether it's a big investment such as a holiday or new household appliance, or something smaller - only to find out when it's too late that you've been taken for a ride. If only there was someone to look out for honest consumers. Thankfully, Watchdog Live is back to do just that, as presenters Matt

Allwright, Steph McGovern and Nikki Fox regroup at their Salford studio. In the opening episode, they take a look at car parking charges, specifically an astonishing new way that parking companies can hit motorists with charges - and why we should not necessarily have to pay them.

Benidorm ITV, 9pm
 Joyce is furious with Sam and Monty after Sammy's disastrous performances in Neptunes, and she soon finds out that Monty has given him a Solana contract. Meanwhile, Doreen jumps the gun by sending Pauline's novel to be published, and Sheron and Billy take a trip down memory lane and spend a day reliving their youth. Elsewhere, Denis and Nigel are increasingly reluctant to arrest Lesley, and Mateo worries about having to go on another concubine cruise with Crystal Hennessy-Vass.

Top of the Shop with Tom Kerridge, Tuesday, BBC2, 8pm

Great Dane is a real treasure trove

SCANDINAVIA had long been an area I'd been keen to explore. So when the opportunity arose to visit Aarhus, Denmark's second city, I jumped at the chance.

On the east coast of the Jutland Peninsula, Aarhus is about 116 miles northwest of Copenhagen. A jewel of the Danish east coast, it bore the title of European Capital of Culture in 2017, and was ranked that year by both Vogue and Lonely Planet as a must-visit destination. On arriving, it is quickly easy to see why.

Aarhus is characterised by its blend of historical and contemporary architecture paired with a vibrant, friendly and exciting atmosphere.

JOVIAL

With a population of just over 330,000 it would perhaps not be considered a large city by modern global standards. Yet Aarhus retains a wonderful metropolitan feel without ever being overbearing.

On my first evening I was struck by two things. Firstly, this place was clean. And I mean seriously clean. Not once as I walked the streets did I see a single speck of litter. This, coupled with the freshness of the air.

Secondly, Aarhus clearly seemed to be a city of the young. Street life was dominated by students and young people toward whom the cosmopolitan vibe of the town was geared. There was a jovial buzz on streets filled with excited evening shoppers, and diners indulging in the gastronomic delights the city had to offer.

I looked around and smiled. I was really going to enjoy it here. After a long day travelling and feeling more than a little famished, I headed to Aarhus Street Food. I had been told about this incredible indoor food market, and needed to see it for myself. It did not disappoint.

A superb addition to the city's dining scene, Aarhus

Enjoy a meander through the Latin Quarter

Street Food is a bustling hall of culinary delight, showcasing fast cuisine from all over the world. And the community-vibe created by the seating arrangements was the perfect way to enjoy my first meal in this progressive, contemporary and imaginative city.

Having enjoyed an evening of exploration, I made my way to my accommodation. WakeUp Aarhus was a stylish and, again, very clean hotel a short walk from the railway station. Its central location positioned it perfectly to enjoy all of the attractions the city would have to offer.

The next morning I headed out to see what this intriguing city was really all about. My first stop was ARoS Aarhus Art Museum. One of the largest art museums in northern Europe, ARoS was initially established in 1859, though was re-opened in 2004 with a new modern building.

With 20,700 square metres on 10 levels, ARoS has ample space to showcase its impressive collection of sculptures, paintings and installations. For atop the roof of ARoS sits perhaps the museum's most incredible installation, and one that turns the vista of the city itself into a work of art. Created by Danish-Icelandic artist

The Salling rooftop bar – a modern winter paradise

Olafur Eliasson, the stunning piece, 'Your Rainbow Panorama', is a 150-metre-long circular coloured-glass tunnel walkway. On the roof of ARoS, it sits 50 metres above ground level, and allows visitors to enjoy a breathtaking panoramic view of the city skyline in every colour of the rainbow.

I decided to go and spend some time in the city's Latin Quarter – a wonderfully vibrant area, characterised by narrow cobbled streets, small chic shops and bustling cafes. A perfect weekend in an incredible part of the world.

Vaccines bounce back

Put them on a T-shirt – The Vaccines fronted by Justin Young in action in Birmingham on Saturday night

"WE'VE been looking forward to this one," said The Vaccines frontman Justin Young, "Birmingham on a Saturday night."

And Birmingham did not let him down, the full house crowd exploding into a moshing mass as the re-energised indie rockers got things off to a incendiary start with pounding opener Nightclub.

The fact that song was treated like a greatest hit but comes off the band's fourth and latest album, Combat Sports, which had only been out for a week, shows that these former contenders have punched their way back to champion status in the hearts of young (and not-so-young) rock fans.

The crowd had been warmed up nicely by Anglo-Icelandic punk band Dream Wife. The up-and-coming female trio (plus male drummer) are feisty and ferocious with dynamic lead singer Rakel Mjöll holding the attention with her declamatory vocals, somewhat akin to both Bjork and (for those with 1980s memories) Clare Crogan from Altered Images. Guitarist Alice Go sports the severest fringe since Dave Hill glam stomped all over the '70s. The stand-out songs were Heartbreaker and Somebody with its 'I am not my body, I am somebody' chant.

THE VACCINES, O2 ACADEMY, BIRMINGHAM

The Vaccines have admitted they lost their way after their previous album but, as someone who saw them in their earlier incarnation, I can testify they are back to their very best.

Bouncing onto the stage in his shades and stripey shirt, Young is one of the best frontmen around, a rabble-rouser in the Ricky Wilson tradition, and is perfectly contrasted with super-cool suit wearing guitarist Freddie Cowan.

New songs Out On The Street, Your Love Is My Favourite Band, Surfing In The Sky and show closer I Can't Quit were greeted as enthusiastically as old favourites Teenage Icon, Dream Lover, Wetsuit, 20/20, Post Break-up Sex and Handsome. New song Put It On A T-shirt also slotted in brilliantly with the other encores No Hope and All In White.

The fresh material plays to The Vaccines' strengths, short, sharp, melodic blasts of pop/rock that make you want to dance.

The Vaccines' return to their rock and roll roots has really paid off and provided Brum with an early contender for gig of the year.

NOTICE TO READERS
Please be aware that when purchasing a puppy there are some simple guidelines you can follow to ensure that you are not purchasing from a Puppy Farmer:

1. Try to ensure you visit the puppy whilst it is still with it's Mother.
2. Do not arrange to collect a puppy from any other location than that of the breeder.
3. Ensure that you are given any KC documentation, if pedigree. Whilst Midland News Association publications take great care to avoid publication of advertisements from Puppy Farmers we cannot accept any liability should readers purchase from this kind of establishment.

Job well done in latest Subaru XV

By Ian Donaldson

Lots of car makers barely mention the oily bits when they proudly introduce the latest model, concentrating instead on the newly flowing lines or vibrant colour choices.

Well, Subaru does all that too – but only after giving you a technical teach-in worthy of a first year degree course in automotive engineering.

Or nearly; with enough diagrams and charts to have you hoping to remember your tumble generation valve from your lateral bending stiffness.

No, me neither, until a dip into the press info file shows we're talking here about the engine and body, the first making the fuel mix better in the cylinders and the increased latter producing a stiffer body that's safer, quieter and better riding.

Both feature on the new Subaru XV, a thorough makeover of an SUV launched in 2012 and facelifted four years later but only taking a fifth of the modest 2,665 total Subarus sales in the UK last year.

The company wants to become the fastest growing car brand in Europe in 2018 and hopes the latest XV will do its bit to make that happen.

If buyers put their head before their heart that ought not to be an impossible target, if the heart rules there is an awful lot of handsome competition out there in the mid-size SUV market (think Mazda CX-3 and Toyota CH-R for starters).

Let's go head first into the new XV, where Subaru continues to make much of its long term mechanical features, with a flat four engine and all-wheel drive contributing a lower centre of gravity for better roadholding and slippery road stability respectively.

It looks a lot like the old car

The choice of 2.0 litre 154bhp or new 112bhp 1.6 litre petrol engine (the old diesel is ditched) comes with a CVT automatic transmission and permanent all-wheel drive, all wrapped in a body a little longer and wider than before and a lot stiffer too.

It looks a lot like the old car but with shapelier curves and a touch more off-road aggression around the plastic wheelarch extensions. Inside, there is a very obvious lift in quality of trim and much clearer instruments and graphics.

Keeping things simple, the XV comes with the two engine choices and just two trim levels, with prices starting at £24,995 for the 1.6 SE and adding £2,000 for SE Premium trim.

Choose the bigger 2.0 litre engine and the prices are £26,495 and £28,495, with the latter top spec likely to be the biggest seller by some way.

Choose the simple SE model and you won't feel shortchanged, with standard kit stretching

Off-road, and on standard tyres, the XV was properly impressive from adaptive cruise control and pre-collision braking to hill descent control and an eight inch touchscreen and Apple CarPlay and Android Auto.

The plusher SE Premium adds satellite navigation, leather seats, power adjustment for the driver and a sunroof.

There remains enough room in the rear seat for a couple of adults not to fall out on a long journey and the already decently sized boot gains a tiny bit more packing space.

The 2.0 litre engine does an adequate, if unspectacular job of propelling the newcomer at any sane road speed and with notably more refinement than before. It showed an acceptable 36mpg after an undemanding drive on British roads.

Pushed to its limit, the 2.0 will hit 121mph, reach 62mph in 10.4 seconds and recorded 40.9mpg and 155g/km in the official tests – all unexceptional figures.

The smaller 1.6 has to work harder, with an indifferent 13.9 seconds to 62mph and 109mph top speed – for modest efficiency gains, showing 44.1mpg and 145g/km.

Off road, and on standard tyres, the XV was properly impressive, tackling a track more than ankle deep in freshly minted winter mud. As on the road, some subtle adjustments to the suspension meant a calmer than expected ride.

So, Subaru's depth of engineering prowess shines through again. Job done?

Diamond date as Lions get ready to roar

RECENTLY-CROWNED national champions for the fifth time in their history, the Birmingham Lions women's American football team will travel to Finland this month to play in the Diamond Bowl, Europe's first-ever international tournament.

Created in 2014, the side are always looking for a new challenge, and this one might just be the biggest so far.

Travelling to Finland, Europe's leading nation for women's American football, the Lions will compete to become 'Europe best women's American football team' in an international tournament held in Helsinki from April 20-22 at the Diamond Bowl.

A squad of 37 players, six coaches and three members of medical staff will take off from London to face some of the top teams from Russia and Finland.

Historic

The Lions are pioneers in the women's game in Great Britain and are now well known for pushing the boundaries of the sport. They were the first British women's club side to take on a European club abroad in 2015 when they played French side Les Sparkles and travelled to Helsinki in 2017 to take on the Helsinki Wolverines, Finland's national champions.

A year later, they are about to play in an historic, unprecedented tournament, both on a European and domestic scale. This is the first time that any team affiliated with the British American Football Association (BAFA) Women's has played 11-a-side American football abroad.

Lions' Head Coach Jamie Kilby said: "Having never played an 11-a-side game together before the begin-

SPORTING FEATURE

By Celine Bisson

ning of the tournament, we cannot underestimate how tough this challenge will be, and that is the exact reason why we want to take it on.

"Having already beaten the Helsinki Wolverines, in a nine-a-side game, hopefully the opposition will be a little wary, and that's what makes it even more exciting! The Birmingham Lions are fierce competitors, and with a roster bursting with talent in their prime I'm confident we are going to surprise more than a few people."

The Lions will face the Helsinki Roosters, hosts and one of Finland's most established team, but also the Saint Petersburg Valkyries and the Tampere Saints in a former Summer Olympics venue, the Helsinki Velodrome. The Lions will open the tournament on April 20 against the Valkyries. Club captain Jo Kilby said: "The team is extremely excited to be returning to Finland, this time to play 11-a-side football versus some of Europe's best exponents."

"Hosted by the Helsinki Roosters, whose pedigree is well regarded, our ambition is to compete, represent our team and ourselves proudly whilst learning masses from the opportunity and experience. Whatever the outcome we hope to have a lot of fun along the way and bring a taste of the Lions brand of football proudly to the European fore."

Tettenhall-based Fell tipped to find his form with Worcestershire in county championship

CRICKET coach Kevin Sharp is backing Worcestershire batsman Tom Fell to bounce back from the challenges of last summer and enjoy a productive 2018 campaign back in Division One of the County Championship.

Head coach Sharp says Wolverhampton batsman Fell, from Tettenhall, is 'in a good frame of mind and looking very good at the crease' with the county cricket season set to get underway tomorrow, Friday.

The 24-year-old scored 1,000 championship runs when Worcestershire were last in the top flight in 2015 and he greatly impressed the then champions Yorkshire with his century in the opening game of that season.

Now he will be striving to play a full part in the county's ambitions as they try to make their mark in Division One, with the opening match away to Hampshire. Sharp said: "Tom is still relatively young and every player will go through a tough period. His was probably a bit longer than he would have liked but it won't do him any harm. He is in a good frame of mind, he looks very good at the crease."

"He probably enjoyed a little break at the end of the season like we all did and he looks absolutely fine. I'd be very confident that he will go on and have a good season. He got 1,000 runs the last time he played in Division One. He got a fine century against Yorkshire and they were very impressed."

In terms of last summer, Sharp added: "Sometimes when you are out of form, the confidence levels and the technique go hand in hand. If you are a bit low on confidence, it can affect your technique. You might grip the bat a bit hard so it affects your balance and your bat path and those things were happening a little for Tom which is not unusual."

"But once he has managed to spend some time at the crease again, and started to relax and enjoyed that feeling of being out there again, all those other things will just fall into place."

Worcestershire have been forced to revise their pre-season plans after a succession of wash-outs.

Not a ball was bowled in three days of scheduled cricket with Gloucestershire at Bristol and a three-day first class game with Leeds-Bradford MCCU at RGS Worcester suffered the same fate.

Move to delay start of season

BIRMINGHAM League clubs have been asked to vote on whether to push back the start of their season by a week following prolonged bad weather.

The league's cricket committee is asking clubs for their views after snow and heavy rain throughout March and into April have left many groundsmen struggling to prepare pitches ahead of the scheduled April 21 start.

And committee members have made the recommendation to clubs that the league programme should be postponed until Saturday April 28.

Fixtures due to be played on April 21 would be played on bank holiday Monday, August 27, is the proposal is backed.

The recommendation will be implemented if 75 per cent of member clubs are in favour. The deadline for clubs to make their feelings known was Monday.

Only a win will do for rider Roynon

ADAM Roynon made an emotional return to Cradley Heathens ahead of their National Trophy season and vowed: "We're in it to win it!"

Roynon joined up with his team mates at Cradley Heath Liberal Club to be introduced to supporters – and every rider received a standing ovation.

But the night was particularly special for Roynon who rode for the club in 2011 and 2012 and saw his time ended when he crashed out of the Grand Final decider with a badly broken leg.

He said: "It feels great to be back and I want to thank everyone for the welcome, it means a lot."

"There's obviously some unfinished business for me at this very special club and it was ironic they went on to win the league in two successive seasons after my crash."

"Now I'm back and I'll be telling the young lads in the team what it means to ride for a club like this and the very special supporters."

"I know we're only riding in the National Trophy so it's a reduced season but we're in it to win it."

"We also want to put the smile back on people's faces because I understand they've had a couple of tough seasons and as far as I'm concerned this isn't the end of league racing for Cradley, with the enthusiasm the fans have again I think they'll be back."

Heathens open their season at Coventry's adopted Leicester home on April 29 before the opening home meeting at Wolverhampton on Monday May 7.

Boxing prodigy Paige is chasing Euro gold in Italy

DUDLEY boxing prodigy Paige Goodyear is continuing her quest for gold as she has been selected to represent England at the European Championships.

The 17-year-old, who is a product of Brooklands Amateur Boxing Club in Dudley, is looking to pack a punch as she competes in the 69kg weight class in Italy.

This is not the first time the teenager has competed on the international stage. In 2015, Goodyear was victorious at the Haslev Boxcup in Denmark.

Trained at the club by Darren McDermott, she is flying out for the event a week on Monday.

Her development has been helped by security services firm, GMS Group, who sponsor the club.

Goodyear said: "I am delighted to again be called up to represent my country and can't wait to get out to the championships."

McDermott added: "Fingers crossed she comes back with a medal. She's worked very hard for this. She's buzzing about it."

Game on for the gold medal winners

Victorious Helen Scott, right, and Sophie Thornhill

TWO Black Country athletes took home gold in the Commonwealth Games leading England's early surge at the top of the medal table on Australia's Gold Coast.

Helen Scott MBE, who used to be based in Halesowen, set a new record alongside Sophie Thornhill as they won the women's visually impaired sprint in cycling.

Dominick Cunningham, who used to train at Earls Gymnastics Club in Halesowen, was part of the England quintet which won the men's team gymnastics event, retaining the title won four years ago in Glasgow.

Scott, a member Halesowen Athletics & Cycling Club, took to social media to celebrate her record achievement.

In a post on Instagram, where she was pictured with her team mate holding their medals, Scott wrote: "Dream day. Dream opponents. Tandem sprinting is AWESOME!" Cunningham, also took to social media to celebrate his win. He wrote: "We absolutely killed it!"

DRAW MEANS YELTZ SURVIVAL

Stafford Rangers 0 Halesowen Town 0
A STALEMATE at Stafford Rangers was enough to finally end Halesowen Town's relegation worries as they made Sutton Coldfield Town's relegation a mathematical certainty.

The one point took the Yeltz past the safety threshold, while Sutton were doomed to the one relegation place in the Evo-Stik League Premier Division by a 2-1 defeat at Barwell.

For the hosts, the news is still sinking in that Stafford's management team of Neil Kitching and Nick Amos will be stepping down at the end of the season, as the duo began their farewell tour.

There were early chances for both teams in an even first period. Yeltz goalkeeper Dan Platt made a second-minute save and opposite number Adam Whitehouse then kept out Ivor Lawton's low shot after Lee Hughes broke away in the seventh minute.

Upright

Both sides went even closer by hitting the woodwork midway through the first period. Osebi Abadaki set up Kyle Perry to strike the Yeltz upright with a 20th-minute bullet header and it was Halesowen's turn to be denied when Danny Bragoli smashed the ball off the underside of the crossbar from a 27th-minute corner after Whitehouse had saved from Lawton.

Halesowen's influential midfielder Lawton then limped off the pitch before the interval. Platt saved easily from another effort from Perry in an otherwise scrappy start to the second half and a Stafford corner was then scrambled away by the solid visiting defence after an hour of play.

But it was Boro who missed a golden chance to win the game when they were awarded a 78th-minute penalty, only for Levi Reid to fire the spot-kick against the Halesowen crossbar.

Lee Hughes gets into the thick of some scrappy action between Stafford Rangers and Yeltz

Sidecar duo to race at Brands Hatch

AFTER taking a year out, sidecar driver Martin Kirk is now raring to go. The Stourbridge racer also has a new passenger this year, so he will be entering round one of this weekend's British Sidecar championships with a completely new slate.

The sidecars will be racing on the under card of the British Superbike (BSB) series, which takes place at Brands Hatch. Kirk said: "I missed most of last season so I could save some money and buy a new sidecar."

"Our old bike was from 1985 but now we've got a 2003 LCR chassis, which is a huge difference."

"We've did a couple of races at Cadwell Park, finishing in the top three, and then more testing over the winter just to get bedded in. We've certainly got the hunger back now. We're ready to go."

Kirk, aged 35, who works as a spray painter for Dustair in Brierley Hill, which is also sponsoring him this year, will be racing with female passenger, Shelley Smithies, from Basinstoke.

Glassboys prove point to leaders

Stourbridge 1 Altrincham 1
STOURBRIDGE produced a defensive masterclass to clinch a prized point against top-of-the-table Altrincham in the Evo-Stik Premier.

Having survived an early let-off when Alty defender Tom Hannigan fired wide in front of goal, Glassboys went on to shock the leaders by taking a 12th-minute lead when Luke Benbow netted direct from a sublime curling free-kick.

Chris Gallagher threatened to weave his way through Alty's defence only to be tripped by defender Shaun Densmore on the edge of the box and Benbow stepped up to slot home.

Chances proved at a premium from that point as Stourbridge defended for all their worth.

It looked as though Alty would level on the stroke of half-time when former Salford City striker Jordan Hulme finally pierced Stourbridge's stubborn defence, but lobbed his effort the wrong side of the post.

Stourbridge's dogged defending finally ran out of luck when Brad Birch was judged to have brought down Simon Richman and referee Simon Brown pointed to the penalty spot with 16 minutes remaining.

Glassboys goalkeeper Matt Gould pulled out all the stops to save Johnston's penalty, but the ball rebounded back out for Jake Moulit to level matters when he fired the ball back with a first-time shot.

It's ninth win out of ten for Byfield

NETHERTON boxer Les Byfield got his year off to a victorious start against Northern Irishman Alec Bazza in the bout at the Venue in Dudley on Saturday night in a superfeatherweight six rounder.

Byfield, aged 30, says he feels ready for a title shot after outpointing the durable journeyman opponent.

It was the Black Country fighter's tenth pro fight as he builds up a useful record that has seen him defeated only once, a points loss that took place on his pro debut.

See coverage of the clash on YouTube via BCB Promotions.

Well, Subaru does all that too – but only after giving you a technical teach-in worthy of a first year degree course in automotive engineering.

Or nearly; with enough diagrams and charts to have you hoping to remember your tumble generation valve from your lateral bending stiffness.

No, me neither, until a dip into the press info file shows we're talking here about the engine and body, the first making the fuel mix better in the cylinders and the increased latter producing a stiffer body that's safer, quieter and better riding.

Both feature on the new Subaru XV, a thorough makeover of an SUV launched in 2012 and facelifted four years later but only taking a fifth of the modest 2,665 total Subarus sales in the UK last year.

The company wants to become the fastest growing car brand in Europe in 2018 and hopes the latest XV will do its bit to make that happen.

If buyers put their head before their heart that ought not to be an impossible target, if the heart rules there is an awful lot of handsome competition out there in the mid-size SUV market (think Mazda CX-3 and Toyota CH-R for starters).

Let's go head first into the new XV, where Subaru continues to make much of its long term mechanical features, with a flat four engine and all-wheel drive contributing a lower centre of gravity for better roadholding and slippery road stability respectively.

It looks a lot like the old car

The choice of 2.0 litre 154bhp or new 112bhp 1.6 litre petrol engine (the old diesel is ditched) comes with a CVT automatic transmission and permanent all-wheel drive, all wrapped in a body a little longer and wider than before and a lot stiffer too.

It looks a lot like the old car but with shapelier curves and a touch more off-road aggression around the plastic wheelarch extensions. Inside, there is a very obvious lift in quality of trim and much clearer instruments and graphics.

Keeping things simple, the XV comes with the two engine choices and just two trim levels, with prices starting at £24,995 for the 1.6 SE and adding £2,000 for SE Premium trim.

Choose the bigger 2.0 litre engine and the prices are £26,495 and £28,495, with the latter top spec likely to be the biggest seller by some way.

Choose the simple SE model and you won't feel shortchanged, with standard kit stretching

Off-road, and on standard tyres, the XV was properly impressive from adaptive cruise control and pre-collision braking to hill descent control and an eight inch touchscreen and Apple CarPlay and Android Auto.

The plusher SE Premium adds satellite navigation, leather seats, power adjustment for the driver and a sunroof.

There remains enough room in the rear seat for a couple of adults not to fall out on a long journey and the already decently sized boot gains a tiny bit more packing space.

The 2.0 litre engine does an adequate, if unspectacular job of propelling the newcomer at any sane road speed and with notably more refinement than before. It showed an acceptable 36mpg after an undemanding drive on British roads.

Pushed to its limit, the 2.0 will hit 121mph, reach 62mph in 10.4 seconds and recorded 40.9mpg and 155g/km in the official tests – all unexceptional figures.

The smaller 1.6 has to work harder, with an indifferent 13.9 seconds to 62mph and 109mph top speed – for modest efficiency gains, showing 44.1mpg and 145g/km.

Off road, and on standard tyres, the XV was properly impressive, tackling a track more than ankle deep in freshly minted winter mud. As on the road, some subtle adjustments to the suspension meant a calmer than expected ride.

So, Subaru's depth of engineering prowess shines through again. Job done?
